

ABSTRACT

A method and system for the prevention of corrosion of objects located close to a wet cell storage battery caused by evaporation, and subsequent condensation, of electrolyte from a wet cell storage battery. Convenient methods for installation and removal of the system are included. Additionally, convenient and safe storage methods are also provided.